

HIGHWAYMEN LED BY A CHILD.

Young Patrick Hyde Identified as Goodwin's Robber.

Days of Fourteen and Fifteen Arraigned as Footpads.

Alleged highwaymen of tender years were prisoners in the police courts today.

Patrick Hyde, fifteen years old, of 1458 Third avenue, was arraigned in the Harlem Police Court this morning, charged with highway robbery. He was committed to the agents of the Gerry Society.

Patrick is the leader of the gang of tough lads who hang about the neighborhood of Eighth street and Second avenue. The gang is in the habit of waylaying and robbing men, and are frightening them, sometimes, into giving what few valuables they may have about them.

On New Year's night the gang waylaid Samuel Goodwin, sixteen years old, an apprentice to John Selman, a baker, at 167 Third avenue. Goodwin is a German who has been in this country only a month. He was out New Year's morning.

He was returning from downtown on the Second avenue "L." He got off at Eighth street station, and started to walk toward the city hall.

Goodwin's hands were seized by Hyde and three other boys. Hyde took from him a pocketbook containing $15 and a rhinestone pin. Goodwin was then released. They were Michael Boy, fourteen years old, of 151 Avenue C; James Dougherty, eighteen years old, of 1458 Third avenue; and Samuel Kinnany, nineteen years old, of 16 Dry Dock street.

The detectives say that all three are members of the notorious "Dry-dock gang." The complainant was Joseph Schwartz, a beer dealer at 323 East Eleventh street. On Tuesday Schwartz left his place of business at 8 o'clock in the evening to go to his stable in Twelfth street. On the way he was stopped by three young men who asked him to go with them. He refused, whereupon, he alleges, he was knocked down and robbed of his money.

Schwartz struggled desperately with the men, and as a result of the encounter he has two discolored eyes and a broken nose. Schwartz cried for help, and an officer came the robbers got away.

He reported the robbery to Detectives Donnelly and Farrell. The three boys were arrested on the description he gave. He promptly identified them as the men who had assaulted and robbed him.

The prisoners denied the charges. They were in and in the morning each was examined by a physician. The three alleged highwaymen after he had disposed of the routine business of the court.

Complainant Schwartz said that he had thought the matter over and he was unwilling to go to the police. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him.

Complainant Schwartz said that he had thought the matter over and he was unwilling to go to the police. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him.

Complainant Schwartz said that he had thought the matter over and he was unwilling to go to the police. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him.

Complainant Schwartz said that he had thought the matter over and he was unwilling to go to the police. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him.

Complainant Schwartz said that he had thought the matter over and he was unwilling to go to the police. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him.

Complainant Schwartz said that he had thought the matter over and he was unwilling to go to the police. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him.

Complainant Schwartz said that he had thought the matter over and he was unwilling to go to the police. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him.

Complainant Schwartz said that he had thought the matter over and he was unwilling to go to the police. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him.

Complainant Schwartz said that he had thought the matter over and he was unwilling to go to the police. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him.

Complainant Schwartz said that he had thought the matter over and he was unwilling to go to the police. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him.

Complainant Schwartz said that he had thought the matter over and he was unwilling to go to the police. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him.

Complainant Schwartz said that he had thought the matter over and he was unwilling to go to the police. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him.

Complainant Schwartz said that he had thought the matter over and he was unwilling to go to the police. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him.

Complainant Schwartz said that he had thought the matter over and he was unwilling to go to the police. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him.

Complainant Schwartz said that he had thought the matter over and he was unwilling to go to the police. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him.

Complainant Schwartz said that he had thought the matter over and he was unwilling to go to the police. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him.

Complainant Schwartz said that he had thought the matter over and he was unwilling to go to the police. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him.

Complainant Schwartz said that he had thought the matter over and he was unwilling to go to the police. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him.

Complainant Schwartz said that he had thought the matter over and he was unwilling to go to the police. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him. He said that he was attacked by three persons who had assaulted and robbed him.

GIRL CAPTURES A BURGLAR.

Little Fannie Schneider Threw Herself Upon the Thief.

They Rolled Downstairs Together and a Detective Came to Her Aid.

Peter Murray, a desperate-looking man of thirty years, who has been in the hands of the police before, was held for trial in the Tombs Police Court this morning to answer to the charge of burglary. Had it not been for the courage and presence of mind of a fifteen-year-old girl Murray would doubtless be at large now with his booty instead of behind prison bars.

The girl is Fannie Schneider. She is pretty, with rosy cheeks and big black eyes that snapped as she told her story in court. She is alone with an employer.

Fannie lives with her parents on the top floor of the Roosevelt street. She is a native of the city and her father, a tailor, is a well-known name in the neighborhood. Her parents having gone to an entertainment at the city hall, she was left alone.

The little housekeeper left the room for a few minutes, in order to take some ashes to the sidewalk. When she returned, she found a man in her room. He was a stranger, and she was alone. She was alone. She was alone.

With the cry of "Thief," Fannie made a dash for the door. The man, who was a stranger, followed her. She was alone. She was alone. She was alone.

Then, in answer to the girl's cry, Fannie Schneider, a boy cousin to Fannie, came to her assistance.

The thief struggled desperately, and would have done so, but for the timely arrival of help in the person of Detective Webb, of the Oak street station, who was passing and heard the rumpus.

Webb rushed in and had the thief in subjection in a jiffy, and marched him to the station-house.

THIEF AND RECEIVER CAUGHT.

Eisenberg Confesses to Burglary and Implicates Weissman.

Charles Weissman, a tailor, of 200 Delancey street, was remanded by Justice Ryan in the Essex Market Police Court today. Detectives Shalvey and Hussey, of the Delancey street station, last night arrested him for receiving stolen goods.

On Wednesday night the clothing store of Morris Masch, 3 Eldridge street, was burgled, and a quantity of goods, valued at $1,000, was removed.

Last night Policeman Ebert, of the Delancey street station, arrested Eisenberg, twenty-two years old, of 176 Broome street, as a suspicious character.

The detective recovered $200 worth of the burglar's, and said that Weissman had purchased some of the stolen goods. The detective recovered $200 worth of the burglar's, and said that Weissman had purchased some of the stolen goods.

Thirteen night, a man named Eisenberg, twenty-two years old, of 176 Broome street, as a suspicious character.

The detective recovered $200 worth of the burglar's, and said that Weissman had purchased some of the stolen goods. The detective recovered $200 worth of the burglar's, and said that Weissman had purchased some of the stolen goods.

Thirteen night, a man named Eisenberg, twenty-two years old, of 176 Broome street, as a suspicious character.

The detective recovered $200 worth of the burglar's, and said that Weissman had purchased some of the stolen goods. The detective recovered $200 worth of the burglar's, and said that Weissman had purchased some of the stolen goods.

Thirteen night, a man named Eisenberg, twenty-two years old, of 176 Broome street, as a suspicious character.

The detective recovered $200 worth of the burglar's, and said that Weissman had purchased some of the stolen goods. The detective recovered $200 worth of the burglar's, and said that Weissman had purchased some of the stolen goods.

Thirteen night, a man named Eisenberg, twenty-two years old, of 176 Broome street, as a suspicious character.

The detective recovered $200 worth of the burglar's, and said that Weissman had purchased some of the stolen goods. The detective recovered $200 worth of the burglar's, and said that Weissman had purchased some of the stolen goods.

Thirteen night, a man named Eisenberg, twenty-two years old, of 176 Broome street, as a suspicious character.

The detective recovered $200 worth of the burglar's, and said that Weissman had purchased some of the stolen goods. The detective recovered $200 worth of the burglar's, and said that Weissman had purchased some of the stolen goods.

Thirteen night, a man named Eisenberg, twenty-two years old, of 176 Broome street, as a suspicious character.

The detective recovered $200 worth of the burglar's, and said that Weissman had purchased some of the stolen goods. The detective recovered $200 worth of the burglar's, and said that Weissman had purchased some of the stolen goods.

Thirteen night, a man named Eisenberg, twenty-two years old, of 176 Broome street, as a suspicious character.

The detective recovered $200 worth of the burglar's, and said that Weissman had purchased some of the stolen goods. The detective recovered $200 worth of the burglar's, and said that Weissman had purchased some of the stolen goods.

IS HE A POOR-BOX THIEF?

Police Think They Have the Principal Outprit.

Over Twenty Boxes Broken Open Within a Month.

The police of the West Twentieth street station think they have arrested the man who has been concerned in the robbery, during the past month, of over twenty boxes put on Ninth Avenue Elevated stations by the "Charity Organization Society." The robberies have been reported from Fifty-third street to the Battery. The boxes have been broken open, and the contents intended for hospital sufferers have been extracted.

On Wednesday the box at the Christopher street uptown station was tipped open, and so the gaudy patterned and trainmen have been very watchful ever since. Charles Pilgram, a colored porter, of 141 street, Brooklyn, kept his eye open this morning, along with the rest of the Pilgram was going up the steps of the Twenty-third street uptown station at 3 o'clock this morning when he heard a suspicious noise. He ran out on the platform and saw two men at work at the lock and were stuffing the boxes, dimes and nickels into their pockets. He shouted and the men ran. One of them went over the rail at the end of the platform and down a post. The other ran out on the tracks and was lost in the fog and darkness.

Pilgram's shouts had attracted the attention of Policeman Haggerty, of the West Twentieth street station. By the time Haggerty reached the elevated platform, the thieves were out of sight. Haggerty jumped down to the tracks and went to a room-house which stood, detached about fifty feet from the station. He pushed open the door, and there found a fairly well-dressed man sitting on a box of apples. He arrested him and took him to the Twentieth street station. The prisoner said he was George J. Haggerty, of 22 West Twentieth street.

He said he was twenty-four years of age and a sub-station. He said he had followed them up to the tracks, and he had followed them up to the tracks, and he had followed them up to the tracks.

Chandler was held for examination to-morrow morning. He is not known to the police as a criminal.

CHANGED HIS MIND.

Suicide Walker Finally Spared the Woman He Had Deceived.

George Walker, thirty-four years old, a former sergeant of marines and recently employed as elevatorman at 83 Franklin street, committed suicide at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his wife's apartment, 225 West Fifty-second street, by shooting himself in the mouth.

Walker and the woman were married several years ago. He was a former sergeant of marines and recently employed as elevatorman at 83 Franklin street, committed suicide at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his wife's apartment, 225 West Fifty-second street, by shooting himself in the mouth.

Walker and the woman were married several years ago. He was a former sergeant of marines and recently employed as elevatorman at 83 Franklin street, committed suicide at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his wife's apartment, 225 West Fifty-second street, by shooting himself in the mouth.

Walker and the woman were married several years ago. He was a former sergeant of marines and recently employed as elevatorman at 83 Franklin street, committed suicide at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his wife's apartment, 225 West Fifty-second street, by shooting himself in the mouth.

Walker and the woman were married several years ago. He was a former sergeant of marines and recently employed as elevatorman at 83 Franklin street, committed suicide at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his wife's apartment, 225 West Fifty-second street, by shooting himself in the mouth.

Walker and the woman were married several years ago. He was a former sergeant of marines and recently employed as elevatorman at 83 Franklin street, committed suicide at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his wife's apartment, 225 West Fifty-second street, by shooting himself in the mouth.

Walker and the woman were married several years ago. He was a former sergeant of marines and recently employed as elevatorman at 83 Franklin street, committed suicide at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his wife's apartment, 225 West Fifty-second street, by shooting himself in the mouth.

Walker and the woman were married several years ago. He was a former sergeant of marines and recently employed as elevatorman at 83 Franklin street, committed suicide at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his wife's apartment, 225 West Fifty-second street, by shooting himself in the mouth.

Walker and the woman were married several years ago. He was a former sergeant of marines and recently employed as elevatorman at 83 Franklin street, committed suicide at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his wife's apartment, 225 West Fifty-second street, by shooting himself in the mouth.

Walker and the woman were married several years ago. He was a former sergeant of marines and recently employed as elevatorman at 83 Franklin street, committed suicide at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his wife's apartment, 225 West Fifty-second street, by shooting himself in the mouth.

Walker and the woman were married several years ago. He was a former sergeant of marines and recently employed as elevatorman at 83 Franklin street, committed suicide at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his wife's apartment, 225 West Fifty-second street, by shooting himself in the mouth.

Walker and the woman were married several years ago. He was a former sergeant of marines and recently employed as elevatorman at 83 Franklin street, committed suicide at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his wife's apartment, 225 West Fifty-second street, by shooting himself in the mouth.

Walker and the woman were married several years ago. He was a former sergeant of marines and recently employed as elevatorman at 83 Franklin street, committed suicide at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his wife's apartment, 225 West Fifty-second street, by shooting himself in the mouth.

Walker and the woman were married several years ago. He was a former sergeant of marines and recently employed as elevatorman at 83 Franklin street, committed suicide at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his wife's apartment, 225 West Fifty-second street, by shooting himself in the mouth.

Walker and the woman were married several years ago. He was a former sergeant of marines and recently employed as elevatorman at 83 Franklin street, committed suicide at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his wife's apartment, 225 West Fifty-second street, by shooting himself in the mouth.

Walker and the woman were married several years ago. He was a former sergeant of marines and recently employed as elevatorman at 83 Franklin street, committed suicide at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his wife's apartment, 225 West Fifty-second street, by shooting himself in the mouth.

Walker and the woman were married several years ago. He was a former sergeant of marines and recently employed as elevatorman at 83 Franklin street, committed suicide at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his wife's apartment, 225 West Fifty-second street, by shooting himself in the mouth.

Walker and the woman were married several years ago. He was a former sergeant of marines and recently employed as elevatorman at 83 Franklin street, committed suicide at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his wife's apartment, 225 West Fifty-second street, by shooting himself in the mouth.

Walker and the woman were married several years ago. He was a former sergeant of marines and recently employed as elevatorman at 83 Franklin street, committed suicide at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his wife's apartment, 225 West Fifty-second street, by shooting himself in the mouth.

Walker and the woman were married several years ago. He was a former sergeant of marines and recently employed as elevatorman at 83 Franklin street, committed suicide at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his wife's apartment, 225 West Fifty-second street, by shooting himself in the mouth.

Walker and the woman were married several years ago. He was a former sergeant of marines and recently employed as elevatorman at 83 Franklin street, committed suicide at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his wife's apartment, 225 West Fifty-second street, by shooting himself in the mouth.

AUSTIN CASE DRAWS A CROWD

The Alleged Drowned Man's Trousers Produced To-Day.

His Brother and Sister Recalled to the Stand.

The sensational features of the trial of the suit for the recovery of $15,000 insurance on the life of John C. Austin brought a full house to-day to Part III. of the Supreme Court, where Justice Patterson presided.

The defense made by the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, as indicated by questions asked in cross-examination of the plaintiff's witnesses by Col. E. C. James, is not only that John C. Austin, who has been shown to have been a remarkably affectionate father, devoted to his motherless little ones—a successful business man, in receipt of an income of $3,000 to $5,000 a year from his ship brokerage business, as a member of the firm of Lord & Austin, 18 Broadway, and a man of strong friendships and steady habits—was drowned while bathing at Manhattan Beach, July 4, 1893, but that he helped drowning, and is now alive and in hiding in the Adirondack wilderness, exiled from his children, bright-eyed mother's boys.

The suggestions of the defense go still deeper into sensational territory. Col. James, who is a member of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, as indicated by questions asked in cross-examination of the plaintiff's witnesses by Col. E. C. James, is not only that John C. Austin, who has been shown to have been a remarkably affectionate father, devoted to his motherless little ones—a successful business man, in receipt of an income of $3,000 to $5,000 a year from his ship brokerage business, as a member of the firm of Lord & Austin, 18 Broadway, and a man of strong friendships and steady habits—was drowned while bathing at Manhattan Beach, July 4, 1893, but that he helped drowning, and is now alive and in hiding in the Adirondack wilderness, exiled from his children, bright-eyed mother's boys.

The suggestions of the defense go still deeper into sensational territory. Col. James, who is a member of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, as indicated by questions asked in cross-examination of the plaintiff's witnesses by Col. E. C. James, is not only that John C. Austin, who has been shown to have been a remarkably affectionate father, devoted to his motherless little ones—a successful business man, in receipt of an income of $3,000 to $5,000 a year from his ship brokerage business, as a member of the firm of Lord & Austin, 18 Broadway, and a man of strong friendships and steady habits—was drowned while bathing at Manhattan Beach, July 4, 1893, but that he helped drowning, and is now alive and in hiding in the Adirondack wilderness, exiled from his children, bright-eyed mother's boys.

The suggestions of the defense go still deeper into sensational territory. Col. James, who is a member of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, as indicated by questions asked in cross-examination of the plaintiff's witnesses by Col. E. C. James, is not only that John C. Austin, who has been shown to have been a remarkably affectionate father, devoted to his motherless little ones—a successful business man, in receipt of an income of $3,000 to $5,000 a year from his ship brokerage business, as a member of the firm of Lord & Austin, 18 Broadway, and a man of strong friendships and steady habits—was drowned while bathing at Manhattan Beach, July 4, 1893, but that he helped drowning, and is now alive and in hiding in the Adirondack wilderness, exiled from his children, bright-eyed mother's boys.

The suggestions of the defense go still deeper into sensational territory. Col. James, who is a member of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, as indicated by questions asked in cross-examination of the plaintiff's witnesses by Col. E. C. James, is not only that John C. Austin, who has been shown to have been a remarkably affectionate father, devoted to his motherless little ones—a successful business man, in receipt of an income of $3,000 to $5,000 a year from his ship brokerage business, as a member of the firm of Lord & Austin, 18 Broadway, and a man of strong friendships and steady habits—was drowned while bathing at Manhattan Beach, July 4, 1893, but that he helped drowning, and is now alive and in hiding in the Adirondack wilderness, exiled from his children, bright-eyed mother's boys.

The suggestions of the defense go still deeper into sensational territory. Col. James, who is a member of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, as indicated by questions asked in cross-examination of the plaintiff's witnesses by Col. E. C. James, is not only that John C. Austin, who has been shown to have been a remarkably affectionate father, devoted to his motherless little ones—a successful business man, in receipt of an income of $3,000 to $5,000 a year from his ship brokerage business, as a member of the firm of Lord & Austin, 18 Broadway, and a man of strong friendships and steady habits—was drowned while bathing at Manhattan Beach, July 4, 1893, but that he helped drowning, and is now alive and in hiding in the Adirondack wilderness, exiled from his children, bright-eyed mother's boys.

The suggestions of the defense go still deeper into sensational territory. Col. James, who is a member of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, as indicated by questions asked in cross-examination of the plaintiff's witnesses by Col. E. C. James, is not only that John C. Austin, who has been shown to have been a remarkably affectionate father, devoted to his motherless little ones—a successful business man, in receipt of an income of $3,000 to $5,000 a year from his ship brokerage business, as a member of the firm of Lord & Austin, 18 Broadway, and a man of strong friendships and steady habits—was drowned while bathing at Manhattan Beach, July 4, 1893, but that he helped drowning, and is now alive and in hiding in the Adirondack wilderness, exiled from his children, bright-eyed mother's boys.

The suggestions of the defense go still deeper into sensational territory. Col. James, who is a member of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, as indicated by questions asked in cross-examination of the plaintiff's witnesses by Col. E. C. James, is not only that John C. Austin, who has been shown to have been a remarkably affectionate father, devoted to his motherless little ones—a successful business man, in receipt of an income of $3,000 to $5,000 a year from his ship brokerage business, as a member of the firm of Lord & Austin, 18 Broadway, and a man of strong friendships and steady habits—was drowned while bathing at Manhattan Beach, July 4, 1893, but that he helped drowning, and is now alive and in hiding in the Adirondack wilderness, exiled from his children, bright-eyed mother's boys.

The suggestions of the defense go still deeper into sensational territory. Col. James, who is a member of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, as indicated by questions asked in cross-examination of the plaintiff's witnesses by Col. E. C. James, is not only that John C. Austin, who has been shown to have been a remarkably affectionate father, devoted to his motherless little ones—a successful business man, in receipt of an income of $3,000 to $5,000 a year from his ship brokerage business, as a member of the firm of Lord & Austin, 18 Broadway, and a man of strong friendships and steady habits—was drowned while bathing at Manhattan Beach, July 4, 1893, but that he helped drowning, and is now alive and in hiding in the Adirondack wilderness, exiled from his children, bright-eyed mother's boys.

The suggestions of the defense go still deeper into sensational territory. Col. James, who is a member of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, as indicated by questions asked in cross-examination of the plaintiff's witnesses by Col. E. C. James, is not only that John C. Austin, who has been shown to have been a remarkably affectionate father, devoted to his motherless little ones—a successful business man, in receipt of an income of $3,000 to $5,000 a year from his ship brokerage business, as a member of the firm of Lord & Austin, 18 Broadway, and a man of strong friendships and steady habits—was drowned while bathing at Manhattan Beach, July 4, 1893, but that he helped drowning, and is now alive and in hiding in the Adirondack wilderness, exiled from his children, bright-eyed mother's boys.

The suggestions of the defense go still deeper into sensational territory. Col. James, who is a member of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, as indicated by questions asked in cross-examination of the plaintiff's witnesses by Col. E. C. James, is not only that John C. Austin, who has been shown to have been a remarkably affectionate father, devoted to his motherless little ones—a successful business man, in receipt of an income of $3,000 to $5,000 a year from his ship brokerage business, as a member of the firm of Lord & Austin, 18 Broadway, and a man of strong friendships and steady habits—was drowned while bathing at Manhattan Beach, July 4, 1893, but that he helped drowning, and is now alive and in hiding in the Adirondack wilderness, exiled from his children, bright-eyed mother's boys.

The suggestions of the defense go still deeper into sensational territory. Col. James, who is a member of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, as indicated by questions asked in cross-examination of the plaintiff's witnesses by Col. E. C. James, is not only that John C. Austin, who has been shown to have been a remarkably affectionate father, devoted to his motherless little ones—a successful business man, in receipt of an income of $3,000 to $5,000 a year from his ship brokerage business, as a member of the firm of Lord & Austin, 18 Broadway, and a man of strong friendships and steady habits—was drowned while bathing at Manhattan Beach, July 4, 1893, but that he helped drowning, and is now alive and in hiding in the Adirondack wilderness, exiled from his children, bright-eyed mother's boys.

The suggestions of the defense go still deeper into sensational territory. Col. James, who is a member of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, as indicated by questions asked in cross-examination of the plaintiff's witnesses by Col. E. C. James, is not only that John C. Austin, who has been shown to have been a remarkably affectionate father, devoted to his motherless little ones—a successful business man, in receipt of an income of $3,000 to $5,000 a year from his ship brokerage business, as a member of the firm of Lord & Austin, 18 Broadway, and a man of strong friendships and steady habits—was drowned while bathing at Manhattan Beach, July 4, 1893, but that he helped drowning, and is now alive and in hiding in the Adirondack wilderness, exiled from his children, bright-eyed mother's boys.

The suggestions of the defense go still deeper into sensational territory. Col. James, who is a member of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, as indicated by questions asked in cross-examination of the plaintiff's witnesses by Col. E. C. James, is not only that John C. Austin, who has been shown to have been a remarkably affectionate father, devoted to his motherless little ones—a successful business man, in receipt of an income of $3,000 to $5,000 a year from his ship brokerage business, as a member of the firm of Lord & Austin, 18 Broadway, and a man of strong friendships and steady habits—was drowned while bathing at Manhattan Beach, July 4, 1893, but that he helped drowning, and is now alive and in hiding in the Adirondack wilderness, exiled from his children, bright-eyed mother's boys.

The suggestions of the defense go still deeper into sensational territory. Col. James, who is a member of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, as indicated by questions asked in cross-examination of the plaintiff's witnesses by Col. E. C. James, is not only that John C. Austin, who has been shown to have been a remarkably affectionate father, devoted to his motherless little ones—a successful business man, in receipt of an income of $3,000 to $5,000 a year from his ship brokerage business, as a member of the firm of Lord & Austin, 18 Broadway, and a man of strong friendships and steady habits—was drowned while bathing at Manhattan Beach, July 4, 1893, but that he helped drowning, and is now alive and in hiding in the Adirondack wilderness, exiled from his children, bright-eyed mother's boys.

The suggestions of the defense go still deeper into sensational territory. Col. James, who is a member of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, as indicated by questions asked in cross-examination of the plaintiff's witnesses by Col. E. C. James, is not only that John C. Austin, who has been shown to have been a remarkably affectionate father, devoted to his motherless little ones—a successful business man, in receipt of an income of $3,000 to $5,000 a year from his ship brokerage business, as a member of the firm of Lord & Austin, 18 Broadway, and a man of strong friendships and steady habits—was drowned while bathing at Manhattan Beach, July 4, 1893, but that he helped drowning, and is now alive and in hiding in the Adirondack wilderness, exiled from his children, bright-eyed mother's boys.

The suggestions of the defense go still deeper into sensational territory. Col. James, who is a member of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, as indicated by questions asked in cross-examination of the plaintiff's witnesses by Col. E. C. James, is not only that John C. Austin, who has been shown to have been a remarkably affectionate father, devoted to his motherless little ones—a successful business man, in receipt of an income of $3,000 to $5,000 a year from his ship brokerage business, as a member of the firm of Lord & Austin, 18 Broadway, and a man of strong friendships and steady habits—was drowned while bathing at Manhattan Beach, July 4, 1893, but that he helped drowning, and is now alive and in hiding in the Adirondack wilderness, exiled from his children, bright-eyed mother's boys.

The suggestions of the defense go still deeper into sensational territory. Col. James, who is a member of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, as indicated by questions asked in cross-examination of the plaintiff's witnesses by Col. E. C. James, is not only that John C. Austin, who has been shown to have been a remarkably affectionate father, devoted to his motherless little ones—a successful business man, in receipt of an income of $3,000 to $5,000 a year from his ship brokerage business, as a member of the firm of Lord & Austin, 18 Broadway, and a man of strong friendships and steady habits—was drowned while bathing at Manhattan Beach, July 4, 1893, but that he helped drowning, and is now alive and in hiding in the Adirondack wilderness, exiled from his children, bright-eyed mother's boys.

The suggestions of the defense go still deeper into sensational territory. Col. James, who is a member of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, as indicated by questions asked in cross-examination of the plaintiff's witnesses by Col. E. C. James, is not only that John C. Austin, who has been shown to have been a remarkably affectionate father, devoted to his motherless little ones—a successful business man, in receipt of an income of $3,000 to $5,000 a year from his ship brokerage business, as a member of the firm of Lord & Austin, 18 Broadway, and a man of strong friendships and steady habits—was drowned while bathing at Manhattan Beach, July 4, 1893, but that he helped drowning, and is now alive and in hiding in the Adirondack wilderness, exiled from his children, bright-eyed mother's boys.

The suggestions of the defense go still deeper into sensational territory. Col. James, who is a member of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, as indicated by questions asked in cross-examination of the plaintiff's witnesses by Col. E. C. James, is not only that John C. Austin, who has been shown to have been a remarkably affectionate father, devoted to his motherless little ones—a successful business man, in receipt of an income of $3,000 to $5,000 a year from his ship brokerage business, as a member of the firm of Lord & Austin, 18 Broadway, and a man of strong friendships and steady habits—was drowned while bathing at Manhattan Beach, July 4, 1893, but that he helped drowning, and is now alive and in hiding in the Adirondack wilderness, exiled from his children, bright-eyed mother's boys.

The suggestions of the defense go still deeper into sensational territory. Col. James, who is a member of the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association, as indicated by questions asked in cross-examination of the plaintiff's witnesses by Col. E. C. James, is not only that John C. Austin, who has been shown to have been a remarkably affectionate father, devoted to his motherless little ones—a successful business man, in receipt of an income of $3,000 to $5,000 a year from his ship brokerage business, as a member of the firm of Lord & Austin, 18 Broadway, and a man of strong friendships and steady habits—was drowned while bathing at Manhattan Beach, July 4, 1893, but that he helped drowning, and is now alive and in hiding in the Adirondack wilderness, exiled from his children, bright-eyed